About

Overview

Lawyer Lin Shu-Chuan has practiced law in Taiwan for over 20 years. She holds various advisory roles including as legal counsel for the Taipei Women's Association, review lawyer for the Legal Aid Foundation, consultant and legal advisor for the SME Association of the Republic of China (Taiwan), and the Ministry of Labor's Entrepreneurship Consultant. Additionally, she volunteers as a lawyer for the Judicial Reform Foundation.

Lin has extensive experience in capital markets, serving numerous well-known clients. Her practice covers a wide range of areas including corporate law, maritime law, insurance law, and negotiable instruments law. She has accumulated years of experience in civil and criminal litigation, particularly in complex areas such as commercial mergers and acquisitions, fundraising, corporate governance, fair trade law, international trade, transportation disputes, and insurance disputes.

In addition to these areas, Lin specializes in technology law, including competition law, biotechnology law, intellectual property rights (including patents, trademarks, copyrights), public works disputes, government procurement law, labor disputes, cross-strait disputes, and Chinese law.

Lin is also recognized as an expert in debt restructuring, having handled hundreds of credit card debt cases, assisting debtors in negotiating with banks and filing for mediation, reorganization, and liquidation proceedings in court.
